Why you should attend

This thought-provoking seminar explores the present state and likely future path of science and technology. Advances in medicine, genetics, information technology, and nanotechnology hold enormous potential but raise moral, ethical, and legal questions. This seminar examines these emerging technologies and their legal implications, which include issues relating to health care, the environment, personal privacy, and other areas.

Cost:

No fee for Attorney General's Office employees
$5 for other State Government employees per session (to cover the cost of materials)
